TRAILHEAD LOCATION:

Lower Poudre Canyon Area: Drive 29 miles from Ted's Place (to mm 93.2). Before crossing a bridge over the Poudre River east of Indian Meadows Resort, look for a parking lot adjacent to a corral on the south (left) side of the highway. The trailhead is located uphill from the corral. Remember to close the corral gate.

Toilets are available across the highway from the parking lot. Please do not park in front of the cattle pen gate in the southwest corner of the parking lot. Limited stock trailer parking is available at the trailhead parking area for a small trailer. To turn around, open the gate to the cattle pen in the southwest corner of the parking lot. (This is also the stock access to the trail.) Be sure the gate is closed afterward, as there are often cattle grazing. Additional stock trailer parking is available with a turn-around across Hwy. 14.

CAUTIONS: This trail was in the Cameron Peak Fire of 2020, the largest fire in Colorado history, which burned nearly 209,000 acres. It has minor areas that are burned but most of the trail is still green and the trail is in good shape.

WATER: Abundant - Except in dry years or very late in the summer, water is available from the creek along the lower 2+ miles of the trail.

CAMPING: Suitable locations for camping can be found along the trail from GPS N40°40.74′ W105°33.84′ to almost GPS N40°40.64′ W105°34.09′ (particularly on the west side of the trail), but they are dry. See REGULATIONS below.

SEASONAL: Accessible in the winter. The parking lot is normally clear from sun exposure. Traction devices are needed. Snowshoes are usually needed on the upper portion of the trail. Though this trail typically holds snow and ice, it does not usually have good conditions for skiing.

DESCRIPTION:

This trail winds up a gulch to the southwest on an old jeep track and stock trail before intersecting the old Dadd Gulch/Salt Cabin Park Road. This path is wellworn and easy to follow. In the spring and summer, a small spring-fed stream meanders through the gulch and the trail crosses back and forth over this small. unnamed creek a total of 18 times. Wildflowers can be abundant along the stream, especially in the spring, as well as through the meadows. Between 0.5 mile and 1.5 miles above the trailhead, the trail passes under some utility lines several times. At about 2 miles, the trail heads steeply uphill and away from the stream and passes near several interesting rock outcroppings before climbing gradually through an open area. Soon the trail enters a meadow with a nice grove of quaking aspens. A short distance above the meadow, on the east (left) side of the trail, is a stock tank that lately appears to be empty and nonfunctional. From the tank, the trail continues for another 0.75 mile to the crest of a ridge, which provides nice views of the surrounding country.

As you continue up the ridge you will eventually pass through an opening in a barbed-wire fence. The trail ends a few hundred yards further, where it meets the Dadd Gulch/Salt Cabin Park Road.

REGULATIONS:

- Camping and Fires Prohibited within ¼ mile of trailhead. Past that, recommend at least 100 feet from water and trail.
